Other events --

The Linguistics department is giving a reception for the conference at the Great Southern Hotel on the evening of Friday, 5 June, 6:00-9:00.

On the next evening (Saturday, 6 June), conference participants are invited for drinks at the Cikoski-Beckmans from 6:30.

Matters of presentation --

All of the other participants will have received copies of all of the papers, so authors can treat the 30 minutes allotted for presentation as quick reviews. Discussants should feel free to bring handouts, viewgraphs, or anything else to make their comments easier to present. There will be an overhead projector and screen in the meeting room. If you need any other equipment (35 mm slide projector, tape recorder, etc.), please notify Mary Beckman. Since the conference is being held away from campus, it will be inconvenient to make last-minute copies of handouts. If you plan to use a handout, please either send Mary Beckman an original to make copies beforehand or bring enough copies (about 60) with you.

Local arrangements --

Rooms have been booked for you at the Great Southern Hotel for Friday, Saturday, and Sunday nights, courtesy of the Ohio State University Linguistics Lab.

Please notify Mary Beckman of your flight number and arrival time so that someone can meet you at the airport.

Local phone numbers --

Ohio State Linguistics department -- (614) 292-4052
Mary Beckman -- office (614) 292-3741, home (614) 299-2232

Local time--

Ohio is on Eastern Daylight Savings time.

Local location --

The Great Southern is in downtown Columbus. There are restaurants in the hotel, taverns and diners in the immediate neighborhood, and nicer restaurants further up High street (including one in the top storey of the Lazarus department store 3 blocks north of the hotel). Downtown Columbus is about three miles south of the University. High street is a major bus route, with frequent service to the University area.

Here is the First Conference in Laboratory Phonology. Meetings will be held in the Neil House Parlor on the ground floor of the hotel. There is an All-Right Parking lot just behind the hotel on Main.
